According to the manuscript copy of the census referred to the population of Red River Junction (now understood to be what is East Grand Forks) was as follows:

"Eustace Oiner, age 30; laborer; born in Upper Canada.
"Albert Sargeant, age 40; merchant; real estate $800; personal $1,500; born New Hampshire.
"Richard C. Burdick, age 25; merchant; personal $1,000. His wife, Catherine, age 22; born in New York. Their child, Charles, age 2, born in Minnesota.
"Charles Cavileer, age 42; physician; real estate $10,000; personal $500; born in Ohio. His wife, Isabel, age 22; born Hudson’s Bay Territory; their children, Sarah J. age 3, Edmund R. age 2, and William McE. age two months, were born in Minnesota.
"Moses Currier, age 12; born H. B. Terry; mixed blood.
"Eliza Currier, age 16; no occupation; born Hudson’s Bay Territory; mixed blood.

These figures are from the manuscript copy of the census, as reported by Commissioner Taylor and now on file in the office of Public Documents in the capitol building at St. Paul, and also as reported in the State Legislative Manual for 1871.